Completed, But Not Finished

By SALLY JACOBS

A FAN said
YESTERDAY
IF WE lived
IN the land
OF THE midnight sun
WE would have seen
A FINISHED game
THEN ANOTHER fan
SAID "while
IT MIGHT have been COMPLETED it could NOT HAVE been FINISHED"
AND we asked HIM WHAT HE meant
AND HE said
"THE ONLY thing
THEY could have FINISHED was US."
BUT IT was NOT THEIR fault

IT was the SUNLIGHT
AND THEN the DARKNESS
TUCSON tried
TO WIN
ALL THE games
LOST in this series
IN ONE DAY
BUT IT COULD not be DID
BECAUSE Phoenix used
TONER'S SPIT balls
AND Smiley's
SLOW HIGH balls
AND THEN Hester's
MIXED BALLS
THAT made
US SO dizzy
THAT the score
LOOKED tied
AND WE went HOME.

COWBOY SPORTS OCCUPY CROWDS AT FRONTIER DAY

"Stay, cowboy! Let 'er buck!" are the popular expressions heard among the crowds gathered in the Mile High City for the Frontier Days' contests, which will open today. Cowboys from every section in the United States are on the ground anxiously waiting for the dawn today. To them it means more than an event which will happen during the entire year, as on July 3, will be awarded the diamond-studded gold medal, representing the world's championship in broncho busting and a purse amounting to $1750 will be divided among the fortunate contestants. Prescott is greatly decked in the Frontier Days and national colors, and the Frontier Days' entrance is very much in evidence. Cowmen from the different sections of the southwest are backing their local favorites, and as there are several "dark horses" from the outside not yet entered, excitement is rife as to the final outcome. Horse races, cow-punching, express and relay races will be run on the arena grounds daily. Arena Director F. L. Haworth has arranged the program so that there will not be one dull moment from sunrise to sunset. The Frontier Days' parade will be one of the special features and will impress nearly an old-time Arizona, let alone efforts elsewhere, with the general appearance of the "wild and woolly" cowboys who will contest in the various events.

Band concerts, rendered by a twenty-piece military band, horse races, baseball games, open-air dancing and carnivals will be among a few of the items which will be carried on during the mornings and evenings of Frontier Days.

Frontier Days' headquarters are established in the Bank of Arizona building, and all visitors are requested to make that place their headquarters during the celebration. From that office visitors will be registered, properly taken care of with respect to accommodations and their comfort. A register of all visitors will be kept on file, so that it will be an easy matter to locate one another.

On Sunday morning the religious and patriotic exercises will be held in the Elks' theater. Viva Head Four, a graduate of the New England Conservatory, and last recently returned from Europe, where she has been studying under the greatest master, will be heard in vocal selection, "O Divine Redeemer," from Gounod. Besides this special treat to music lovers, the Prescott union chorus, composed of twenty voices, will be heard for the first time, with an orchestral accompaniment of ten pieces. With low excursion rates from all points in Arizona to Prescott, where the biggest wild west stunts in the southwest will be held for three days—July 2, 3, 4, 5—comfortable accommodations assured at reasonable rates, amusements to suit the most sophisticated, the Mile High City may well be proud of her annual summer festival, and every Arizona should make it a special attempt to be present during the Frontier Days.

AMUSEMENTS

"JUDGE NOT" STRONG

FEATURE AT LAMARA EMPRESS IS GUILTY OF FLAGRANT FRAUD

A psychological mystery story that is at once powerful, convincing and dramatic, under the title of "Judge Not," and produced by George Kleine, is the four-part headliner at the Lamara today. It is quite a remarkable story. Judge Edward Martin is found dead on the street, and an investigation leads to the verdict of "murdered." Henry Duval, prosecuting attorney and a close friend of the dead man, resolves to untangle the skein. He suffers intensely from nervous trouble which gives him periods of mental aberration. Duval learns that a sentimental friendship exists between the judge and a Mrs. Lea Morrel. He learns also that Mr. Morrel had forbidden the judge the house, and also his wife to see him. Among Morrel's close friends is a physician who has made a study of nervous trouble. He becomes convinced that the killing was done by one suffering from such a trouble. He calls upon Duval and closes questions him—this to save his friend Morrel, and after a time the truth dawns upon the prosecuting attorney that he had committed the crime when in a period of mental aberration. The blow is such that he falls dead. The story is told with all the stunning effect that characterizes the Kleine pictures the world over.

Robt. Harron and Mae Marsh at Lion Today is the last opportunity to see Robert Harron and Mae Marsh in the great drama, "The Victim," which is one of the strongest photographs of its kind to be seen here. It is a story dealing with the injustice of conviction on circumstantial evidence, and is said to be founded on a true case. Robert Harron and Mae Marsh are excellent in their parts, and "The Victim" is a play that will make you grab your seat during some of the exciting moments. This attraction will be shown the last time today, with "Molly of the Mountains" tomorrow, followed Monday with the fairy story, "Rumpelstiltskin," which is said to be a wonderful picture.

If you go to the Empress tonight you will see a fine Essanay "Frauds" drama in three parts, and you will find that frauds are not always frauds, as in this case "Frauds" is far from being a fraud, as it features two screen favorites—Edna Mayo and Bryant Washburn. This picture was much appreciated last evening. There is also a fine comedy, "Booby's Baby," in which Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Drew appear to a very good advantage. "The Little Scapegoat," a biograph drama, features Jack Mulhall, Gus Dixley and Emma Davilina. The ever popular Hearst-Selig weekly, if anything, is above the average, showing the paying of the last honors to the victims of the Louisiana. Many war scenes are shown, as well as many scenes in civil life.

Big Days at Riverside If the sun continues to shine through the next three days the biggest crowds of this or any other season will be themselves to Riverside, for this is the preliminary center to the glorious Fourth which, as the way is to be celebrated on the 5th. BOSTON STORE only to care for, but to royally entertain the guests of the park during these days, and many are the stunts which are to be "pulled" to make an Arizona holiday.
A POPULAR SHOPPING CENTER

There will be a brand new picture show tonight, with the three-part Larkin drama "Her Majesty," as the main feature of the bill. In this picture Arthur Johnson and Lettie Ericson are starred. The comedy is supplied by the Vitaphone one-reeler, "The Chief's Goal."

At the dance pavilion new stunts will be offered and new novelties displayed.

After all, it is the pool which is the great attraction in these mid-summer days, and since the installation of the new heating system, which allows the regulating of the temperature of the water, the great swimming hole is more popular than ever. There have been those who complained that the water at Riverside was too cold, but if that was the case, it has been done away with now. The pool is kept at a temperature of from 75 to 80 degrees, and everybody is reveling in it.

The Plaza

An extra big special attraction is booked for the Plaza theater today. Not only is the second episode of the great serial, "The Master Key," being shown, but a wonderful two-part feature, "The Long Shift," is booked for this program. "The Long Shift" is a mind-boggling, intensely dramatic, full of heart-interest and heroism. It has a little child for its hero, and will undoubtedly prove one of the most attractive features ever booked at this popular house.

The Commanding Officer

For the first time in Phoenix Alice Dovey, one of the most charming prima donna ingenues on the American stage, will be seen in the movies tonight. She is to appear at the Arizona theater in a film version of Theodore Burt Sayre's play, "The Commanding Officer." Released through the Famous Players' Film Corporation this splendid play has at last reached the screen and the fact that it serves to introduce Miss Dovey to Phoenix should be an added reason for a most successful engagement.

It was originally planned to have this film shown at the Arizona last night; but owing to a mistake made at Tucson, the picture was returned to Los Angeles instead of being shipped to Phoenix. The tensesness over the story does not subside until the final finish, and the various characterizations are so well blended into a unit of action that never is the spectator bored or distracted from the main element of the plot even momentarily.

The Coliseum

For a thoroughly jolly and suitable warm weather offering, it would be hard to improve on "The Runaway March" which is being shown at the Coliseum this week. It shows Billy House and his partner, Jimmy Alford, to excellent advantage and in addition gives the balance of the company lots to do and they all go ahead and do it, and do it well. The bill is filled with popular musical selections and dance numbers. There is not much plot, and that plagues everybody, for who wants to think with the mercury way up near the top of the thermometer.

Comedy, of course, predominates, and as the bulk of it is in the hands of Messrs. House and Alford, it goes without saying that it is handled in fine shape.

Camels are ready for work at the age of five and begin to decline at 25, though they live to the ages of 35 and 40 years.
